Final stage of the project

Assess Well, which focuses on the development of English teaching / learning materials for the wellness sector, is reaching its final stage. The partner institutions from Germany, Italy, Spain and the UK celebrated the achievement of the project results during their final meeting in July at VHS Cham, in Bavaria, Germany. The meeting was a great occasion to discuss the future use of the Assess Well teaching materials, including videos covering communication skills and professional situations for those working in the wellness sector. All materials including the exercises, tasks and videos can be found on the website www.assesswell.eu. A short educational video on how to use all materials is also available on the Assess Well website.

The Assessment Tool

In addition to the English teaching and learning materials, Assess Well offers an assessment tool for English teachers and wellness trainers. By using the tool, they can evaluate the professional and English language competences of those working in wellness, and recommend plans for improvement activities or further training. Following the testing phase, the assessment tool has now been adapted into a more user-friendly format by including pictures, videos and simulation exercises. It is also available on the Assess Well website.

Spread the word on Assess Well

During the meeting in Cham the partner institutions discussed the planning and content of their respective multiplier events which are being organised over the next few weeks. These events will serve to disseminate the findings of the project, raise awareness of the curriculum, assessment tool and materials, and act as a forum for discussing the future impact and potential new applications for the course. The partners have all enjoyed the challenge of working on this innovative project and are very satisfied with the outputs produced.
